LONDON PUB OF THE YEAR – JUDGE FOR YOURSELVES!

June and July see the judging for our annual CAMRA London Pub of the Year competition. All London branches and those with a sizeable part of their area within Greater London have entered their current their Branch Pub of the Year within the area in the contest to find the London Pub of the Year for 2005. Selection criteria centre around beer quality, inevitably, but also include atmosphere, cleanliness, style and décor, service and welcome and, of course, sympathy with CAMRA aims. Similar criteria govern the national competition into which the London winner will be entered in due course.

The pubs put forward for this year's London competition are as follows:

Robin Hood and Little John, 78 Lion Road, Bexleyheath, Kent

Beer Circus, 282 High Street, Croydon, Surrey

Black Bull, 199 Whitechapel Road, London E1

Orange Tree, 18 Highfield Road, Winchmore Hill N21

Wych Elm, 93 Elm Road, Kingston upon Thames

Oakdale Arms, 283 Hermitage Road, London N4

Red Lion, 92-94 Linkfield Road, Isleworth

Gowlett, 62 Gowlett Road, Peckham SE15

Cricketers, 299/301 High Road, Woodford Green

Trinity Arms, 45 Trinity Gardens, Brixton SW9

Star Tavern, 6 Belgrave Mews West, London SW1

Fox, Green Lane, Hanwell, W7

Any branch member who is interested in getting involved in judging should contact their branch teams - most have a chief judge who co-ordinates the branch scores and returns them by the middle of July to the regional co-ordinator. We would also be delighted to hear readers' views on any of the pubs put forward. Contact your branch or write to me, by all means, via the Editor.

One more request. It may not matter just how wonderful we think these pubs are to some of the people who actually own the premises. But it should matter to the local planning authorities when they receive applications to demolish them and build flats instead. If you would prefer to save the Oakdale Arms, Haringey Council needs to know by 19 June. Write to 639 High Road, London N17 8BD, telephone 020-8489 5508 or email development.control@haringey.gov.uk

WHAT'LL IT BE THEN?

A PINT OF THE USUAL, OR A LIFE-CHANGING EXPERIENCE?

Allow us to introduce you to an old friend. Fuller's ESB, three times Champion Beer of Britain, seen here in its smart new livery. Don't worry, the beer's just the same as ever. But if it's been a while, maybe it's time you reacquainted yourself with its uniquely rich, deliciously fruity flavour and long, satisfying finish. It could well be the happiest reunion of your life.

ESB. THE CHAMPION ALE.

PUBS OF THE YEAR

South West Essex London Pub of the Year, the Cricketers at 299/301 High Road, Woodford Green is a McMullen's house serving AK, and Country on handpumps. It is a pleasant, comfortable pub with a dartboard in the public bar. The roomy saloon bar has a relaxed atmosphere and displays insignia plaques for most of the county cricket clubs and also several photos of Sir Winston Churchill who was for many years the local MP. His statue stands on the green almost opposite. A guest beer is usually available and hearty lunchtime food is served on weekdays.

BY GEORGE, WYCH IS THE BEST PUB?

The answer to this question is that the Kingston and Leatherhead branch of CAMRA couldn't decide so they now have joint Pubs of the Year.

The Wych Elm at 93 Elm Road in Kingston is again a winner, following its success in 2003. This Fuller's pub has a traditional atmosphere and friendly welcome. The long serving Spanish landlord, Manuel Turnes is renowned for the best Chiswick Bitter in London and was delighted to win for the second time.

The other joint winner is the George & Dragon in Thames Ditton High Street. This is a Shepherd Neame house, rare in Surrey and retains a village local atmosphere. Both pubs will go into the CAMRA Regional Pub of the Year competitions; the Wych Elm in the London competition and the George & Dragon in Surrey.

Branch Club of the year is the Surrey Staff Club in Penrhyn Road, Kingston.

Dave Morgan

South West London CAMRA Branch members have voted for the Trinity Arms, Brixton, as their Pub of the Year. In presenting the award the Branch Chair, Martin Butler, praised the management of the pub for running a splendid example of a local community pub.

The presentation, on the eve of the General Election, was attended by the Mayor of Lambeth, representatives of Young's brewery and of course, pub regulars and branch members.

A GENUINE PEARL IN PECKHAM

After years as a real ale desert, Peckham has cultivated a real pearl of a pub. The Gowlett at 62 Gowlett Road has been voted the CAMRA South East London Branch Pub of the Year

Jonny and Claire Henfrey took on the pub in November 2003 because they had lived in the area for around seven years and could not find anywhere they really liked to drink. So they gambled everything on making a go of it, making 'the gowlett se15' into a community pub where everyone is comfortable. "The pub is our front room, and we try to ensure all customers are welcomed as guests by the staff, whether it be for a meal with our delicious wines or a quick half and a pit stop!"

Everything about the pub, from the patio garden to organic wines, baby seats to excellent real ales and great home made stone baked pizza.: what more could you ask from a local?

The award will be presented at the Catford Beer Festival, which runs from 8 to 11 June at the Broadway Theatre. There will also be a celebration at the pub on 23 June.

For more details, check www.thegowlett.com and www.selcamra.org.uk.

E-mail: ldnews@btinternet.com. Thanks to all those who pointed out that Reykjavik is the capital of Iceland, not Finland. That was not the April Fool's Joke, just one of those dreaded "senior moments". Still, at least I know that Lake Wobegon is in Minnesota and not Iowa.

◆ But seriously...

In case anyone did not realise, my item on Anti-Social Barsteward Orders last issue was intended to be an April Fool's joke but no sooner had we gone to press than the Government attempted to match it. Fixed Penalty Notices – otherwise "on the spot" fines – for £80 are being introduced for bar staff who serve drunken customers. It will be left to the management of the premises as to whether they pay the fine or leave it to the employee concerned.

◆ The 'Nationals' are back...

An emergency motion was presented to CAMRA's Annual General Meeting in Glasgow last month concerning the offer made by Wolverhampton and Dudley plc for Jennings Brewery in Cumbria. The meeting condemned the proposal and strongly urged all Jennings shareholders to reject it, or any other offer that would jeopardise the brewery's long-term future. The CAMRA Investment Club, which holds 1.25% of shares, is leading the way in rejecting the bid and a petition is now available for signature on the CAMRA website www.camra.org home page. Mike Benner, Chief Executive, said, "Despite W&DB's assurances to keep the Cocker mouth brewery open, I think the only way to guarantee the future of the brewery is to defend its independence as a vertically integrated company". It is not as if the company is in trouble; in the five months ending January 2005 their pub operating income increased by 5%. They also had plans to develop their free trade sales and appointed a new sales and marketing director who curiously used to work for W&DB...

Roger Protz spoke in favour of the motion at the CAMRA AGM and warned the meeting that with the activities of both W&DB and Greene King, we faced the reappearance of 'national' brewers and all that went with it for the first time since the dreaded old 'big six' imploded. We had to be prepared to object to takeovers by brewers who we otherwise thought of as 'friendly', a point of view that I for one wholeheartedly agree with.

Meanwhile, W&DB's Marston's operation has agreed a deal with the magazine Nuts to produce 200 cases of 'Nuts Premium Beer' which will be given away in a series of competitions in the magazine.

◆ Smoking

I have not picked up on any significant developments here recently but amongst other policy matters agreed at the CAMRA AGM it was decided that, in order to safeguard the health of workers, CAMRA beer festivals should be non-smoking events in at least the bar and main hall areas.

◆ GBBF on the move

It was also announced at the CAMRA AGM that 2005 would be the last Great British Beer Festival at Olympia. The event is not moving far, however. As from 2006 it will be down the road at Earl's Court. Look forward to a bigger and brighter event accordingly.

◆ Beautiful Beer campaign

As reported by Christine Cryne in the last issue, the British Beer and Pub Association (BBPA) has launched a campaign to improve the image of beer. I hate to be cynical and would not want to pour scorn on anything that might improve beer quality but some of what I have read in the trade papers has not encouraged me. The chair of the campaign steering group is Peter Kendall, chief executive of Coors which, you will recall, is the company that thinks so much of Bass, one of the world's most famous beers, that it has handed over the brewing of it to another company. Saying that "beer has been associated with a certain lifestyle and we want to change that," Mr Kendall seems to suggest that poor service is down to the customer's image. On the £300,000 that is to be spent on the campaign, he commented that "compared to a major brand like Stella or Carling, it's a pretty small amount". Apparently, a pilot study of 340 pubs in an earlier study by the BBPA in conjunction with Cask Marque had found that 64% of pubs served cask ale to the correct standard, whereas between 95% and 100% of pubs served lager, keg and stout correctly and sales had risen some 3% in pubs which had received beer quality training. With all due respect, how much research and campaigning do you need to tell you that a good product sells better than a bad one and that keg beer is easier to handle than cask? The first pub has however received its Beautiful Beer certificate. It is the Castle in West Street, Harrow, a Fuller's house and not currently a Good Beer Guide entry.

◆ and for the Lady...

As Christine also mentioned, one of the angles of the 'Beer is Beautiful' campaign is to replace traditional pints and halves with 'female friendly' 'thirds' in an attempt to 'shatter the macho image of beer'. The BBPA wants the smaller measures, served in large wine-style glasses, to lure female drinkers away from wine, alcopops and other fruit-based drinks. About 36% of women in pubs drink wine but only 14% cent drink beer. An Evening Standard vox pop however found that only a third of female beer drinkers interviewed were interested in the new glass size. One asked: "when would you order a drink like that? Certainly not after the day I have had; I've been dreaming of this pint all afternoon". Roger Protz in his Morning Advertiser column quite rightly thought back to the days when some publicans refused to serve pints to women. I have no objection to some imagination in glass design such as the new Fuller's ESB glasses which I like and I take the point that 'thirds' would be useful for tastings but I, too, thought that we had moved on from the deeply patronising 'little lady' attitude. For the record, a third of a pint is a legal measure (1988 Weights and Measures (Intoxicating Liquor) Order). Above that, beer and cider can only be served by the half-pint and multiples thereof. A 'two-thirds of a pint' measure would not be legal although it seems to be the one I get served in many pubs these days. Of course, the price of a third of a pint would not legally have to be one-third of the cost of a pint so long as it was clearly set out on the pub's price list (and don't get me started on that subject...).

◆ News from Fuller's

Fuller's are once again sponsoring the Help Hammer Cancer fun run, to be held this year on 19 June. This is the 10th year that London Pride has been associated with this event, a ten kilometre walk or run, as you see (or feel) fit, between Chiswick and Hammersmith bridges, starting and ending at the brewery. You can obtain more details from the website: appealshamm@cancer.org.uk. Fullers have also come up with an interesting new marketing scheme. They are looking to turn fans of their beer into 'brand ambassadors'. More details can be found on Fuller's 'Proud of your Pride' website.

◆ New style and old problems for Wetherspoons

A lot has been happening on the JDW front. They have introduced a third kind of pub in addition to their mainstream and Lloyds No. 1 outlets. The first, the Drapers Arms in Peterborough, is more 'lightly branded' in an attempt to attract a more upmarket clientele away from the dreaded town centre circuit. It features fresh food (so the others don't then...?) and a range of 'world' beers, including two draught wheat beers, and is totally non-smoking following a successful experiment with two other houses in Exeter and St Albans. These outlets have apparently already been attracting a slightly different type of customer with higher wine and food sales.

Meanwhile company results overall are disappointing - profits down by 20% in the first half of the current trading year - and the group is 'reviewing its cost base' which may include cutting the number of pub managers it employs. The inspection team headed by restaurant critic and guide writer Egon Ronay will also go, although Mr Ronay will remain an adviser to the company. Some of us might suggest that actually employing a few more bar staff might increase takings.

Rumours persist of a takeover but Tim Martin has ruled out a management buy-out. The company has however brought back 1 million of its own shares at 253p per share and a further 16 pubs are up for sale, most within the M25. Another 10 pubs have been converted to the Lloyds No. 1 format.

On the positive side, JDW are leading the way with two developments. They are working with Cask Marque to ensure that each of their pubs has a trained cellar manager responsible for beer quality as well as its presentation to the customer. Training is to be conducted at eight different breweries, including Fuller's, leading to the British Institute of Innkeeping's Beer and Cellar Quality certificate. JDW have also put in for 24-hour licences - the first pubco to do so - for their pubs at Victoria and Liverpool Street stations.

Meanwhile, a reader kindly sent me a press cutting about the Ledger Building at West India Quay. It is alleged that bar staff there have been forbidden from eating and drinking in the pub during their meal breaks and from drinking there with friends. They are not as highly-paid as most workers in the area and going elsewhere in the Canary Wharf area for food and drink is costly. A JDW spokesperson is quoted as saying; "The management at the Ledger Building feels that this policy represents the right approach for this particular pub and will not affect the staff that much as many of them live a long way away and go home straight after their shifts". That's all right then...

◆ News from SIBA

SIBA, the Society of Independent Brewers, has just released its third annual report and commercial director, Nick Stafford, is concerned that nothing has really changed as regards small breweries gaining access to the market. SIBA run their own Direct Delivery scheme and some pubcos such as Enterprise Inns and Avebury Taverns use it to take beers from local independent breweries but the deals that the big pubcos arrange with the big brewers still dominate. Mr Stafford reported that four out of five local brewers said that they had lost customers in the last 12 months due to pubco acquisitions.

On a happier note, the increase in the threshold for the sliding-scale Progressive Beer Duty in March 2004 has enabled many small brewers to expand capacity and some 70% have taken on extra staff, creating some 1,000 new jobs in the industry. Mr Stafford's own company, Hambleton Ales, has however recently suffered an embarrassment. They have produced a bottled gluten-free beer which they named, fairly obviously, GFB. Fellow SIBA members Hop Back Brewery, who have for some years brewed a bitter called GFB (Gilbert's First Brew), have asked them to call it something else. I sampled both at the recent Hop Back AGM and found that the name is all that the two beers have in common but I hope that Hambleton persevere with it under a different name for the sake of those who otherwise might not be able to drink beer at all.

◆ Freedom Beers to reappear

The Freedom Brewery, once of Fulham, now has new owners, the Brothers Brewery, run by three brothers (oddly enough) called Steve, Richard and Michael Knight. They intend producing two beers, organic lager and pilsner. The organic beer will continue to be produced in Germany but the pilsner will be produced at Abbotts Bromley near Burton on Trent. The original brewer, Ian Ward, will be in charge at the new plant. The pilsner is due to be launched in June.

◆ Name battle continues

Anheuser-Busch are still persisting with their claims to the name 'Budweiser'. In 2001 Portugal's Supreme Court ruled that Czech brewer Budejovický Budvar has the right to use the Budweiser name under a 1986 treaty between the Czech Republic and Portugal. Anheuser has now petitioned the European Courts of Human Rights on the basis that the Portuguese court infringed its 'peaceful enjoyment' of the trademark. According to the Financial Times, this is believed to be the first action at the court in which a company is arguing a trademark should be classed as a 'possession' under human rights law.

◆ An off-licence for real

Our Regional Director, Steve Williams, has told me about a promising development in his area. Cask beer enthusiast Nick Dolan is opening the Real Ale Shop at 371 Richmond Road, East Twickenham TW1 2EF. The shop will stock over 60 bottle conditioned beers sourced from micro breweries from around the country and until now rarely seen in the London area. There will also be two or three real ales direct from the cask available by the jug or bottle in the specially air conditioned store. No beer will be stocked unless it is Real Ale, which is only to be expected from the man who owns the company name Real Ale Limited and the web-site: www.realale.com. We wish the venture every success.

◆ Southside success

The Southside Bar at Imperial College once again made it to the final of CAMRA's Club of the Year competition and earns a runner-up award. Sadly, this will be the last time for a while at least that the Southside will be entered. The building that houses it is to be demolished later this year as part of a redevelopment, and the future is uncertain.

◆ Tickets please

And finally... I am informed that if you buy a train ticket in Russia you will often receive a vodka allowance as part of the price. Useful if the 24-hour Wetherspoons on the station has run out, I suppose...

EXHIBITIONS

LAST ORDERS FOR THE PUBS OF CHELSEA

We must surely mourn the loss of the traditional pub in Chelsea. These establishments have changed dramatically in recent years and even more so locally, where pressures on new styles of living and high property values have seen the pub evolve into the 'gastropub' or disappear entirely. Even the traditional names of those left are at risk.

The Chelsea Society Exhibition will tell the story of the Chelsea pubs, past and present, their history and their possible future. It will be held in Chelsea Town Hall in the King's Road, 19-29 June, 10am-6.30pm. Admission is free.

For further details, visit enquiries@chelseasociety.org.uk.

BRIGHTON BOOZERS

A small exhibition runs until 17 December at the Brighton Museum and Art Gallery (next to the Royal Pavilion), with a lot about social history. A folder about fittings includes an interior view of the spectacular 1931 King and Queen (National Inventory Appendix) which shows a screen (now removed) dividing the ground floor.

A visit to the exhibition could be combined with a pleasant day out in Brighton. The Royal Pavilion, of course, is a must-visit for anyone interested in history and buildings, while everyone should have a look at the nearby King and Queen pub.

Open: Tues 10-7, Wed-Sat 10-5, Sun 2-5; closed Mondays except Bank holidays.

Admission free. Full disabled facilities.

BOB HENDRICKX'S FLEMISH PUBS BOOK COMES TO LONDON!

The new, sixth edition of Bob Hendrickx's Flemish cafes book, 332 Originele Cafes in Vlaanderen (332 Original Cafes in Flanders) includes, for the first time, five London entries. These are the Royal Oak, Tabard Street, Borough, SE1; Utobeer, Borough Market, SE1; the Beer Circus, High Street, Croydon; the White Horse, Parsons Green, SW6; and Microbar, Lavender Hill, Battersea/Clapham, SW11.

There is one full colour page for each café or pub. If you have the book, you visit the various pubs featured, and at each one you get the book stamped on the relevant page. When you present the book, you get your second drink in each place free. Collecting stamps then produces its own rewards: if you visit 100 of the pubs, you get a free crate of beer; if you visit 200 you get three free crates of beer, and if you visit the lot you get your weight in beer! The book is sponsored by the Lefebvre Brewery, which produces classic beers like the Floreffé abbey range and the popular honey beer, Barbar. Your prize can be chosen from any Lefebvre beers.

You will be able to buy the book in any of the five London venues. The cost of the book, only about £10, will soon be offset by the savings on the free second consumption in each place. And if you are thinking of visiting Belgium any time soon, you will be able to use the book in many of the great classic pubs such as 't Brugs Beertje in Bruges, Het Waterhuis aan de Bierkant in Gent, and De Heeren van Liedekercke in Denderleeuw, as well as many newly opened and newly discovered gems in more remote locations.

Bob Hendrickx himself will be in London on Friday 3 June to help launch the book, and so why not come along, buy the book, visit the pubs, and meet Bob while you're at it? The day will start at Waterloo International Station at 10.30am. Participants will head over from there to the Royal Oak, then Utobeer, the Beer Circus and the White Horse, ending the day at Microbar in Battersea.

For more information, contact: Jeremy Gray on 020- 8947 7314 or via the Burgundian Babble Belt website: www.babblebelt.com/board.html

YOUR PRIZE COMBINATION?

At the Royal Oak in the Borough, everyone knows an Old & Mild as a Grandmother, and an Old & Bitter as a Mother-in-law.

What other combination of different beer styles appeals to you? A prize of 12 bottles of Harvey's Imperial Extra Double Stout awaits the reader who can suggest the best named.

Entries, please, to be sent to the Editor, to reach geoff@coherent-tech.co.uk no later than Monday 18 July.

THE GREAT BRITISH BEER FESTIVAL

We need you!

We rely on hundreds of member volunteers to work at the festival and make it a success. If you want to join in the fun at the festival this year, you will get a specially designed GBBF Staff T-shirt, free accommodation at students' halls of residence and a free lift back there at the end of each day, lots of free beer (of course!) and heavily subsidised food at the popular staff canteen. So what are you waiting for? If you're not a member of CAMRA, join now using the membership form on page 35.

Electricians, first aiders, bar and foyer staff, site team and stewards are all needed (to name just a few). For more details on working at the Festival, whether you can spare just a few hours or work throughout, please contact Paula Waters at gbbf_staffing@btinternet.com

London publicity crawls

The London publicity crawls start on Wednesday 29 June, 6pm at the Counting House, Cornhill. The second is Tuesday 5 July, 6pm at the Britannia, Allen Street. Wednesday 13 July sees a 6pm crawl start from the Ship and Shovel, Craven Passage and finally we start at 12 noon on Saturday 23rd July at the Head of Steam, Euston.

Contact Steve Williams on 020-8878 1391 or e-mail rd.greaterlondon@camra.org.uk for further details. The more the merrier!

Corporate entertainment

Stuck in the office and wondering how you might get to the festival? Why not encourage your company to take a corporate party?

A variety of options is available to suit different tastes and budgets. We offer everything from a festival admission package to private tastings and buffets. Packages start at just £26 per head. For further details contact Georgina Rudman, at georgina.rudman@camra.org.uk or telephone 01727 867201.

Want a trip round Young's?

Young's have very kindly allowed CAMRA to auction places on a trip round their historic Ram Brewery in Wandsworth. The auctions will take place at least daily at this year's Great British Beer Festival, and the trip will take place on a Saturday in September that's still to be finalised.

The brewery has also very generously offered for auction three weekend breaks for two at a Young's hotel. These offers will be auctioned at GBBF on the Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday evenings.

On the Thursday evening, there will be an auction for the opportunity to be Brewer for a Day at Bateman's Brewery. Bateman's are offering a very attractive package including membership of the Batemans Beer Club (normal cost £100 per person).

If anyone would like to submit a 'postal' bid, please contact Bill Austin: by writing to 18 Malden Road, Watford, WD17 4EW; by phone 01923 221217; or email baustin@supanet.com

LETTER

Dear Editor

Keith Emmerson (Letters, Vol 27, No. 2) and I have both used the Internet as a way to promote CAMRA's basic ideals, as we are both very lowly servants. We both reflect the work of many others.

The mapping and recording of London pubs is important to show how society changes, and that a block of flats on a pub site needs 'community projects' to replace the social activity that was lost!

A 'wiki' is a website where most, if not all, of the pages can be edited by anybody. It is no longer people like Keith and myself who have to enter the text and maintain all the information, every single reader can now be writer too, if they wish. Just login and start with a small contribution.

It is by this method that the information should be more accurate. The Oxford Dictionary of Biography, published by Oxford University Press, is crammed full of errors that have crept in from the cohort of authors who contributed. Contrast that with most of the 'Wikipedia' (the online encyclopedia, with more pages than Encyclopædia Britannica and 'Encarta') which has been corrected by the many readers who decided to 'edit' something or create a new article. The process can sometimes go wrong, and a system of voting is employed to resolve the conflict.

There are some other online resources. Derelict London is a interesting website with a pubs section at www.derelictlondon.com/pubs.htm. And may I mention Dead Pub Society once more? www.dead-pubs-society.org.uk/ Be reader and a writer!

And finally, this must be worth a visit: http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Wikipedia:WikiProject_Beer

LONDON FOR FREE - MORE POUNDS TO SPEND ON BEER

WAR AND PEACE

This series of articles explores the many available no-cost adventures in the capital city. This edition's article deals with two very different venues, one dealing with war, the other offering a serene, peaceful space.

Take a worthwhile visit to The Imperial War Museum (Lambeth Road, SE1; Waterloo Tube/Lambeth North; 020-7416 5320; www.iwm.org.uk). For an excellent introduction to this site, in addition to the information and interactive photos on its website, see Susan Allen Toth's chapter in England for All Seasons. Ironically housed in what used to be Bethlehem Hospital for the Insane (aka Bedlam), the museum occupies what was the hospital's central area; see www.touruk.co.uk/london_museums/imperialwar_museum1.htm for more information. Also search the museum's website (listed above) for exhibitions which will be on when you plan to visit. Taking a relatively neutral look at war, the museum features a wealth of items of interest to both children and adults. Among them, you can see the one-man submarine; clamber through a World War II aeroplane, wondering how normal-sized men could endure the cramped space; climb up on a tank; experience the dark and noises of the trench experience of World War I; browse through the plethora of exhibits; and savour the 1940s House of television fame, recreated in the space, including a victory garden in its back garden. Some of the furniture and accessories may look familiar to visitors whose parents or grandparents had similar ones in their homes during the 1940s. Photographs, collections of uniforms, weapons, paraphernalia of war, paintings, all are here. The touruk.co.uk website states, 'Some of the most moving images are the pictures drawn by Henry Moore during the Blitz, when Londoners slept in underground stations to escape the nightly air raids'. Imagine this the next time you use the Tube. Before you leave, visit the well-stocked shop and purchase a toy or book. Although the name sounds austere, the museum is visitor-friendly and most informative.

A detour to a pub is now in order, so head for the Market Porter (9 Stoney Street, SE1 9AA; 020-7407 2495; London Bridge Tube). This pub has a special early-opening licence to serve the workers of Borough Market, just across the narrow street. A no-frills pub with wood floors, high ceilings, and seating around the walls, the pub is especially noted for offering a variety of beers from small breweries such as Dark Star Brewery in Sussex; the walls are covered with beer mats of beers which it has served. Harvey's Best Bitter is offered most of the time, but expect a potpourri of other good beers also to be available. According to the GBG listing, over 1,000 beers have been offered over the past few years, so get ready for your taste buds to be satisfied.

Then head for a peaceful venue: The Museum of Garden History (Lambeth Palace Road, SE1; 020-7401 8865; Waterloo/Victoria Tube, then bus 507; or walk from Vauxhall, Lambeth North, or Westminster Tube station; www.museumgardenhistory.org). Near the south end of Lambeth Bridge, the garden and museum are in the restored church of St. Mary-at-Lambeth. The church is next to Lambeth Palace, London residence of the Archbishop of Canterbury. The small replica knot garden, which can be seen on the museum's website, 'commemorates the famous 17th century gardeners and plant hunters, the John Tradescants, father and son, and is planted with plants of the period'. Check out the events offered by the museum as well, including jazz concerts (free), drama (free), and lectures on gardening. Browse in the small shop and drink a cup of tea in the café after your walk round the garden. To experience the serenity of sights and fragrances of the past mingled with those of the present is to bring another day out to a satisfying close; war and peace have filled your day, with peace winning out.

For your final beer of the day, walk from the museum to the Vauxhall Tube station and take the Victoria line north two stops to Victoria Station. A 10 minute walk will bring you to the Country Pub in London (52 Cambridge St., SW1; 020-7834 5281). This pub is aptly named, for saddles, hops, and country images surround you. The low ceiling and rafters link the two rooms together. Beers available have included those from Barnsley and Crouch Vale breweries. A genial landlord who specializes in serving real ales from various small breweries provides a pleasant, friendly atmosphere for his customers.

LONDON PUBS GROUP VISITS CHISWICK AND BRENTFORD

It was cold, crisp and clear as we gathered at the Tabard, 2 Bath Road, W4 at midday on Saturday 19 February at the start of CAMRA's National Pubs Week. It looked as if National Pubs Week was getting off to a promising start both weather-wise and architecturally. The Tabard is a grade II* listed building and is on CAMRA's London Regional Inventory of Pub Interiors of Special Historic Interest. Built in 1880 to a design of the famous architect, Norman Shaw, it is one of the landmark buildings of the elegant Bedford Park garden suburb. The pub has been refurbished in recent times but in a sensitive manner, reflecting the Arts and Crafts style of the building. Some of the original wall tiles by William de Morgan remain as does some of the wall panelling. Three or four real ales were available.

On leaving the Tabard we proceeded down Turnham Green Terrace, crossed over Chiswick High Road and walked down Devonshire Road to the Devonshire House (formerly the Manor Tavern),

126 Devonshire Road which we reached at about 1 o'clock. This is one of several pubs on the crawl designed by the architect Thomas Henry Nowell Parr, in this case for the Royal Brewery, Brentford. Nowell Parr was born in Handsworth, West Midlands in 1864. He started his career as an architectural assistant in Walsall Corporation Architects' Department (1890-1894) and then moved to Middlesex to work in Brentford Urban District Council (UDC) Architects' Department. From 1897 to 1907 he was Architect, Engineer and Surveyor to Brentford UDC and, while retaining this post, he set up his own architectural practice in 1900. Among his designs for Brentford UDC is Brentford Library, built in 1903 and opened on 9 May 1904 by the American millionaire philanthropist, Andrew Carnegie who had donated £5,000 to the cost of the building. In the same year (1904) a Boatmen's Institute was built for the London City Mission to Nowell Parr's design on the Grand Union Canal at Brentford – it is now a private house. He also undertook commissions from Fuller's and, as mentioned above, the Royal Brewery, Brentford with the Three Horseshoes, Southall and the Forester, West Ealing among his other pubs. Nowell Parr's son, John Nowell Parr (died 1975) joined the architectural practice at some point. In 1914 Thomas Henry Nowell Parr moved from 42 Cranley Gardens, South Kensington to 52 Kew Bridge Road, Brentford which is very near the last pub on our crawl, the Express Tavern. In 1925 he became a Fellow of the Royal Institute of British Architects. He died on 23 September 1933. Even though the Devonshire House has had partitions removed, this pub, built in 1924, retains its original panelling, beamed ceilings, Tudor archways (a favourite Nowell Parr touch), fireplaces, bar counters and bar-back bearing the word 'COURAGE'. Other original signage remains also, including a 'Gentlemen' arrow sign in the smaller bar area, and an illuminated sign, THE MANOR TAVERN on the bar-back in the larger bar area. We ate lunch while taking in all these details but unfortunately no real ale is served in this rather smart upmarket pub.

We didn't have far to go to our next pub which was almost opposite - the Duke of York, 107 Devonshire Road. This is another pub designed by Nowell Parr, this time for Fuller's. Dating from 1926 it retains its original door lobbies, wall panelling, bar counters, bar-backs and tell-tale Tudor arches. However, unlike the more spartan Devonshire House visited previously, a nasty modern gantry has been introduced in one of the bars which spoils the effect of the servery area. We were pleased to be able to choose from the three available Fuller's ales: Chiswick, London Pride and ESB.

The walk to our next pub was rather longer. We returned to Chiswick High Road, noting with regret the splendid exterior of the recently closed, grade II listed Young's pub, the Crown and Anchor, 374 Chiswick High Road. Further along the High Road

we arrived, a little later than our scheduled time of 3 o'clock, at the Old Pack Horse, 434 Chiswick High Road. This grade II listed pub is another designed for Fuller's, this time in 1910, by Nowell Parr. Again we noted his distinctive Tudor archways. The fairly lavish original fittings include etched and stained glazing, wood and stained glass partitions in an Art Nouveau style, saloon bar-back and clock. There is also a pleasing fireplace, which may be original, in an alcove. Here we were treated to a full range of Fuller's ales. One of our party was asked by some of the pub regulars if we were a delegation from the Olympic Committee!

Fortified by the beers we continued down Chiswick High Road then walked along Sutton Lane North and finally Wellesley Road to the Pilot, 56 Wellesley

Road. Although this pub retains little, if any, of its original interior, we were able to compare its refurbishment with that of the Devonshire House visited earlier on the crawl. Two or three real ales were available and we counted ourselves very lucky as we reached the pub just before a snow shower began. On the way to the Pilot, some of us made a detour to visit another pub which appears to have been designed by Nowell Parr - the Hole in the

and Tudor archways.

We waited in the Pilot for the snow shower to subside before continuing our crawl. We then walked along Wellesley Road and Chiswick High Road to Kew Bridge Road where we arrived at the Waggon and Horses, 26 Kew Bridge Road, TW8, behind schedule at about 6 o'clock. This Fuller's pub had Chiswick, London Pride and ESB on sale and served as a handy stop while we waited for our last pub to open at 6.30 pm.

The final pub, on the other side of Kew Bridge Road from the Waggon and Horses was the Express Tavern, 56 Kew Bridge Road. It is on the London Regional Inventory and has a Victorian bar-back which is said to have been imported from somewhere else in the 1920s. Despite refurbishment in 1994 the Express retains much of its original atmosphere. The rear room was brought into use in the 1930s and has 'brewer's Tudor' fittings. There were three or four real ales available including Young's Bitter and Battersea Bitter. This was a wonderful finale to what had been an extremely interesting and enjoyable crawl. Let's drink to Thomas Henry Nowell Parr!

CASK MARQUE AWARDS

Formed in 1997, Cask Marque is an independent accreditation scheme jointly funded by participating brewers and retailers, which recognises excellence in the service of cask ale. The award is made not to the pub but to the licensee, who has to pass two unannounced inspections with assessors sampling up to six beers checking temperature, appearance, aroma and taste. Further inspections are made twice a year, with additional random inspections triggered by customer comment. For more information visit the Cask Marque website at www.cask-marque.co.uk.

The following pubs and clubs in Greater London have licensees who have been awarded a Cask Marque plaque.

CAPITAL PUBCHECK - UPDATE 183

The aim of 'Capital Pubcheck' is to share information about the latest happenings on the London pub scene including new pub and bar openings, name changes, acquisitions, closures, notable changes to beer ranges etc.

Information is gathered from a variety of sources including London Drinker readers, individual CAMRA members and branch contacts, breweries, pub operators, landlords etc. If you would like to contribute to 'Pubcheck' please send your news to the address below.

This time we record two new real ale outlets for Central London in EC1 Clerkenwell and WC1 Bloomsbury, the latter dispensing the rare Arkells beers. Young's only W4 Chiswick pub, reported in the last Update as sold to a property company, has been saved as a pub by David Bruce's Capital Pub Co. Another pub previously earmarked for residential conversion has reopened again in SW15 Putney. Against this there are many pub closures reported by contributors across the capital but shortage of space has meant these will be held over until next time. More 'Hogsheads' acquired by Greene King are reported renamed – more details of Greene King acquisitions next time. The Irish owned Porterhouse in SW13 Barnes has been sold and renamed.

A new, selective CAMRA guide covering N1 Islington, Barnsbury, Canonbury and Hoxton and was published by North London Branch in February 2005, listing only pubs then selling real ale. Cross references to those N1 pubs in the new guide will be included in Capital Pubcheck alongside references to the comprehensive North London guide.

Cross references to CAMRA's various pub guides covering Greater London are provided to enable easy updating. SE1, MINISTRY OF SALSA, 2-6 Wandsworth Rd. No real ale. New Free House/Latin American bar and restaurant in former Rileys snooker hall.

SOUTH WEST

SW15, PUTNEY BRICK, 32 Waterman St, Reopened and reverted to BRICKLAYERS ARMS (although permanent signage not yet installed). Taylor: Landlord; Guest beer. A homely free house reopened after some time in purely domestic use by the enthusiastic owner whose purchase saved it from conversion a few years ago. (SW100, U153, U164)

SW18, JOLLY GARDENERS, 214 Garratt Lane. Fuller: London Pride, Guest beer. (SW113, U138)

WEST

W4, CROWN & ANCHOR, 374 Chiswick High Rd. Fuller: London Pride; Marston: Pedigree; Young: Bitter; Guest beer. Sold by Young's to a property company offering a vast sum for a pub that had not even been on the market, it was advertised for resale at an even higher price and then reopened in no time by the Capital Pub Company. BEER AND BUSES

An occasional series linking 1960s buses with 21st century brewing

For those drinkers old enough to remember, London Transport operated the vast majority of London's bus & coach services between 1933 and 1970 with red 'Central Area' buses and green 'Country Area' buses as well as the luxury 'Green Line' express coaches. The green buses reached such exotic places as Letchworth in the north, Aylesbury and West Wycombe in the west, Brentwood and Gravesend in the east and Horsham in the south.

With London's boundaries being dictated by an old 1965 LT bus map, I decided to try to visit as many breweries as possible contained within its borders. To add to that some nostalgic references to the local bus services of that era, I felt the makings of an occasional series for the London Drinker.

Leith Hill Brewery, Coldharbour, Surrey

Located in the beautiful Surrey countryside just 3 miles beyond Dorking is the peaceful hamlet of Coldharbour. The Plough was the terminus for the 433 route that ran from Ranmore via Ranmore Common and Dorking. A route of no more than 7 miles end to end, it was serviced with 26 seat Guy Special GS class buses and I can remember a foggy journey from Dorking to Coldharbour on said bus back in 1967 when I was a schoolboy.

Coldharbour is a great starting place for exploring Leith Hill (National Trust), the highest point in south-east England. There is an 18th Century Gothic tower atop Leith Hill that takes the height to 1000 feet above sea level. On a clear day you can see the cement works on the south coast at Shoreham to the south, Canary Wharf Tower in the Isle of Dogs and aircraft landing over the BA hangars at Heathrow! Presumably the Wembley Arch will also now be visible. The Tower is open on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays throughout the summer (also Wednesdays during August) for £1 – don't forget your binoculars! In addition, visitors to the area during May and June will be rewarded with fantastic displays of rhododendrons and bluebells.

A walk up Leith Hill will obviously give you a thirst and therefore a visit to the St George's flag bedecked Plough is essential. In a true free house serving Shepherd Neame and Ringwood ales, pride of place on the bar is given to the beers brewed by the Leith Hill Brewery – Crooked Furrow (4.0%) and Tallywhacker (5.6%). Landlord Rick Abrehart, who has run The Plough for 16 years, originally installed the 1.5 barrel length brewery in 1996. He intends to introduce a third beer to his range, Tickety-Boo, later this year. It will be a light coloured 4.8% beer brewed with lager malts, but will require some technical additions to the kit first to provide more accurate temperature control. Brewing yeast is supplied by Ringwood.

Leith Hill Brewery consists of a mash tun, copper and two fermenting vessels shoe-horned into 'utility room' type accommodation behind the pub. Outside the brewery, locally sourced wild hops are currently grown for decorative purposes.

The Plough is the only outlet for Leith Hill beers and the freshly prepared food is wholesome and to be recommended. If you would like to explore the area further, accommodation is available at the pub. Further information is available at www.ploughinn.com or by phoning 01306-711793.

NEW RIVER WALK

On Saturday 7 May some Enfield and Barnet CAMRA members, led by our chairman Sandie Ward, had a walk along sections of the New River within the London Borough of Enfield.

The walk was to start at 12noon outside the Halfway House, a Beefeater on the busy A10 Cambridge Road. However we were surprised to find it had three operational handpumps. The beers were Greene King IPA, Flowers IPA and Bass, the last of these being the best - or should that be least bad as none was of a standard of 2 (average) using the CAMRA national beer scoring system.

After this impromptu sampling, a 5 minute road walk took us to a 'kissing gate' leaving the tarmac for grass track alongside the river. We passed an aqueduct built in 1859 that carries the New River over Maiden's Brook. Until this was built, the course followed the contours on a long route through Whitewebbs Park. Parts of this are still visible and we saw some of these later on.

At Capel Manor Gardens and Horticultural College we left the river; after 1? miles we needed more refreshment. The Pied Bull came into sight just in time as we were caught in a hailstorm! Once inside we found the beer range was uninspiring and expensive - GK IPA at £2.40 and Old Speckled Hen at £2.60. The quality was somewhat better, on the good side of '2'.

On again, using a short road stretch to enter the grounds of Forty Hall. Here we saw the old course of the river at two places en route to our next hostelry, the Rose & Crown. This had Courage Best and Directors but the Guest Ale was Marston's 'Dragonstail' at 4.5% and £2.30. The entire group opted for this and it got a good 3. This was also the pub for our late lunch. On through an open space known as Hillyfields and then back into suburbia.

At this stage the New River is not accessible so a couple more pubs were visited. First was the Wonder, a McMullen House with lots of character and two bars - a rarity in these parts. The AK, Country and the current seasonal 'Catkins' were sampled, all getting a good response with some giving 4s (very good). On to the Old Sergeant, a pub that not long ago was boarded up and looked doomed. With a good licensee the place has turned around and is vibrant. The branch had visited here during the week as we were 'Making May a Mild Month' and they had put on Mighty Oak 'Oscar Wilde'. It was still on and so that was the beer of choice, getting 3-4 as its rating.

Soon we rejoined the New River on one of its many variant routes through its 400 year existence. We passed the Crown and Horseshoes (we are visiting it later in the summer as a garden social) and the Cricketers to the Stag where halves were in order.

An unbelievably rural part followed with the Town Park and a golf course shielding us from the bustle of suburbia. After calling for halves of GK IPA or OS Hen at a tennis club (where one of the branch members is a member), we then took the final stage of our walk to the Branch pub of the year, the Orange Tree, Winchmore Hill where not only had a mild (Moorhouses Black Cat) been provided but also a welcome buffet.

So Enfield and Barnet members were able to enjoy a walk and pleasant countryside, survey a few pubs and their beers, and even educate ourselves with local history.

We look forward to our next 'Saturday stroll'.

Ron Andrews

In the Pied Bull...

...and the Orange Tree

Some members of CAMRA Enfield and Barnet Branch who didn't go to Glasgow for the National AGM decided that they were not going to let St George's Day on a Saturday pass by without celebrating.

So we arranged a St George's Day Hop and, armed with bus passes and Oyster Cards, jumped on and off buses visiting six Wetherspoons pubs in our branch area. Several of us dressed in the spirit of the day and a good time was had by all.

Starting at the Gilpins Bell, Edmonton at noon, we went on to visit the Picture Palace, Ponders End, the Moon under Water, Enfield, the New Crown, Southgate, and the Tally Ho, North Finchley, finishing at the Railway Bell, New Barnet.

Sandie Ward.

Le Gothique Bar was arguably London's first gastropub when founded by eccentric owner Mark Justin in 1985. Today, as ever, a selection of regional real ales from Shepherd Neame, Ballards and Youngs awaits.

Housed within South London's most remarkable building this former orphanage was a war time home to M.I.5 & M.I.6. Cellar trips (by arrangement) reveal the prison cell last frequented by Rudolph Hess. Here, you may also bump into our resident ghost.

This truly impressive building is really worth a special visit and large off street parking is available as well as an award winning garden in the sheltered Victorian cloisters. Lunchtime specials at £7.95 plus an extensive evening menu are available Monday to Saturday.

Private parties and weddings a speciality (Great Hall seats 250).

Vehicular access via Fitzhugh Grove, off Trinity Road Wandsworth SW18
On foot from John Archer Way, off Windmill Drive. Nearest Station Clapham Junction.

Closed Sundays with private parties on most Saturdays.

IDLE MOMENTS

Greetings one and all. I was sitting here thinking, "Why am I sitting here writing this while the sun is shining? I should be out for a ride on my motorbike" – only now we are in the middle of a heavy shower. Oh well!

This month's quotation is a slightly different take on one from the Bard. It was penned by Art Linkletter in 1965:

The four stages of man are infancy, childhood, adolescence and obsolescence.

So, on with the show – here's the number puzzles:

1. 1992 Y of the BO
2. 16 T (by TEF)
3. 14 L on a WL
4. 112 P in a H
5. 25 P is a P
6. 8 T on an O
7. 604,800 S in a W
8. 1666 GF of L
9. 20 PN have SEE on the B
10. 24 M in a G of D

And having got them out of the way, let's plough straight on with the brewery anagrams:

1. ANT YAWS
2. RALLIED BOG FAN
3. SLOW EDNA
4. VOLE OR LIP
5. HOPE CARS
6. REG & RAB LEAR
7. WET RISKY HORSE
8. LIKE MR. TEST
9. GRANT GIT SCOPE
10. RABID RON HAD A NERD

I was casting about for a subject for this month's 5BY4 when my eye lighted on the National Trust Guide and I thought that lot's of the properties they own were the homes of famous people. So I dug out just ten and decided to subtitle the round, "Famous Residents." All you have to do is link the houses in the first list with their residents from then second list:

1. Lamb House (Rye, E.Sussex)
 2. Cliveden (Taplow, Bucks)
 3. Hughenden Manor (High Wycombe, Bucks)
 4. The Red House (Bexleyheath, Kent)
 5. Woolsthorpe Manor (Grantham Lincs)
 6. Sissinghurst Castle (Cranbrook, Kent)
 7. Clouds Hill (Wareham, Dorset)
 8. Smallhythe Place (Tenterden, Kent)
 9. Lacock Abbey (Chippenham, Wilts)
 10. Quebec House (Westerham, Kent)
- A. Sir Isaac Newton
 - B. T.E.Lawrence
 - C. Lady Nancy Astor
 - D. Benjamin Disraeli
 - E. Gen. James Wolfe
 - F. William Morris
 - G. William Fox Talbot
 - H. Ellen Terry
 - I. Sir Harold Nicholson & Vita Sackville West
 - J. Henry James

And finally we come to Trivia Corner. What can I say other than there is no particular link between any of this month's questions:

1. Which hospital is the operational base for London's Air Ambulance service?
2. In 1961 the American folk singer had which other singer as a guest on her television show - his first TV appearance. He went on to become somewhat better known than her - who was that young man?
3. Born in Glasgow in 1931 and one-time banjo player with Chris Barber's jazz band, Tony.... went on to become one of the leading lights of British popular music in the sixties. Who was he?
4. Who reputedly sailed to America in a leather boat?
5. What was discovered in 1960 by a workman digging a trench for a water main across a field near Chichester?
6. Edouard Manet's painting "A bar at the Folies-Bergère" features bottles of what English beer?
7. What creature has the Latin name "Hippocampus Hudonius"?
8. What model of TVR is named after a mythical fire breathing creature with the head of a lion, body of a goat and tail of a serpent?
9. Who solved the riddle of the sphinx?
10. What was the nom de plume of Joel Chandler Harris who wrote about Brer Rabbit and others?

So there we are. Maybe we shall have some nice days this week so I can use the bike to go to work.

Have fun till next time.
